CONSTRUCT GREAT BRIDGE

President Mapother Issues Officia Statement-Gives Description of and Figures of More Than Ordinary Interest-Similar Structures to Follow at Chef and Bay St. Louis-Plan to Straighten Road and Eliminate Curves.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad is about to begin the construction of a modern steel and concrete bridge to replace the wooden structure it has used to cross the Rigolets. Surveys and plans for the bridge are complete, and Superintendent John Bose has been authorized by President Mapother to announce work on terial and operatives can be assembled. The construction of the bridge is expected to require two years. The New Orleans end of the new bridge will not be more than 100 feet from the corresponding end of the wooden bridge. The other end however, will be considerably further from the eastern end of the present structure. The change will tend to straighten out a curve in the tracks which now exists between Rigolets and English Lookout. The straightening of this curve will expedite the work on that section of the road. It will call for a straight realignment of the right of way beyond the Rigolets. The new bridge is designed to meet special requirements similar to those existing at Chef Menteur and if the new type is found satisfactory during the procedure of construction, the L. & N. plans to build a similar one

Mr. Mapother's Statement. The statement authorized by Mr. Mapother follows:

"The new bridge will be 4,595 feet long. The approaches to it will be

The piers supporting the steel bridge work will be of unusual form, especially designed to withwill be 34 feet in diameter, placed 70 feet below the bottom of Rigolets Pass. The piers will be constructed of concrete strongly and heavily reinforced with hundreds of steel rods. Each pier will contain about 2,700 cubic yards of concrete and weighing 13,100,000 pounds. "This enormous structure work is estimated to cost $3,18,000. It will ! take about two years to complete it. Hope to Stand All Storms.

"The piers and superstructures have been designed to stand any storms which have heretofore occurred on this coast but it is impossible 2 to predict the violence of storms which may occur in the future, and it may be that storms of such violence 3 may hereafter occur which would de- 💠 stroy any bridge which it is practicable to build.

"Notwithstanding this possible risk | and the very great cost and serious difficulties of building a substantial Jersey Ice Cream bridge over the Rigolets, the Louisville and Nashville will undertake its construction, and will build a bridge capable of carrying any locomotive

"The project is voluntarily undertaken by the Louisville and Nashville. No question concerning the sufficien. cy and safety of the existing structure or the existing operating practices are involved. As a result of careful investigation the present 3 structures across the Rigolets and Chef Menteur were found to be perfectly safe and the operating and maintenance practices all that could be desired in the interest of safety from the public standpoint.

"Tell the people of the whole world if you can," Mr. Ford said in his interview, "that if they would save money they should not buy coal in any great amount now. winter coal much more cheaply."

Mr. Ford, in company with his son,
Edsel, president of the Ford Motor Company, spent three days along the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad, the manufacturer's property, and saw hundreds of thousands of tons of coal moving northward he said. They arranged for an ample supply of fuel for the Ford plants for the next sixty days, he announced.

"There is enough coal above ground to run the country for a long time," Mr. Ford said. "The high prices were made because the supply was held back from the market. But the price is falling rapidly. We bought 500 cars of tool in Toledo for $5 a ton. That, or course, includes the freight rate from the mines to Laurel, Miss., Sept. 27.-Forest Toledo. > Mine Owners Blameless. "The mine owners are not to plame for the coal situation," said Mr. Ford. "The brokers are the robbers, and they are financed, by a group of bankers who participate in the robbery. If these grafters were cut off, the price of coal would be reduced 50 per cent without reducing either miners' wages or the profits of the coal companies. "If we had not closed our industries the price of coal to householders would have gone to $25 a ton this winter. It might have gone to $50 a ton. I know a domestic consumer in a city near Detroit who was informed by his coal dealer that the price of anthracite would be $25 a ton. The customer was required to make a deposit of $10 a ton before the dealer would book the order.

"I don't know how others feel about such grafting, but I will not stand for it. I would have kept our plants closed sixteen years if necessary to break this artificial coal shortage. I am fighting for a principle. We could have paid $3 or $4 a ton more, perhaps, without adding more than 50 cents to the cost of a car, but if we had paid the graft the people would have been plundered for millions. There is no use of our paying high wages to our men if profiteers are to take it away from them the next moment. We closed our plants to protect the public. The public welfare was the only consideration that moved me when I decided to shut down:"

Ford is very bitter against Hoover and the Interstate Commerce Commission, blaming them for the high price of coal.

A NEW SIDE LINE.

A new and profitable side line to Stationery and printing, farming has been developed by three farmers who work in the fields all day near York Center, Ill., and hold up "spooners" along the country roads on Wednesday and Saturday night. They started about the first of June and averaged about ten victime a week, most of whom were too embarrassed to report the hold-ups. All went well until these agricultural profiteers attempted to hold up the parked car of a deputy sheriff. What haprened then is just what ought to happen to people who make life miserable for autoists; people who are capable of plotting such despicable acts for the sake of getting their hands on a dollar or two. We have heard of no such case around Bay St. Louis and we sincerely hope that we never will. For our people have little respect for the man who cannot grant the other fellow the privilege of attending to his own business And such acts as this might go a good deal rougher with the guilty ones than if it happened in some other section of the country.

The planting of seed oysters, which has been conducted by the Mississippi Oyster Commission, upon the Biloxi and Pascagoula reefs, and of which Chief Oyster Inspector Louis Staehling has charge, has been completed. Upon the Biloxi reefs there was planted 7,000 barrels of seed oysters and upon the Pascagoula reefs 2,000 the supply is expected to be ample to meet the demand.

Percy Bell Issues an Address to the People

TO THE PEOPLE OF MISSISSIPPI: Over a year ago I announced through the press that I would be a candidate for Governor of Mississippi subject to the 1923 Democratic primaries. Since that time I have been over the greater part of the State and have made a number of public addresses in which I have advocated purity and cleanliness of public and private life, a rigid enforcement of law, suppression of crime, co-operation of our people to the end that wealth may be increased and taxation decreased, the proper support of educational and eleemosynary institutions, and have discussed with our people some of the problems dt the State.

I am adopting this method of again bringing my candidacy to the attention of all of our people and of urging upon them the necessity of examining before 1923, most carefully the records and qualifications of candi- some voice in the selection of the coldates for public office.
